In this difficult time especially for art, Arcturus Gallery made the choice to start the year with a new artist, Lúdia Masllorens.

This 48 years old spanish painter was exhibited regularly in Spain since 1991 and started an international career with this solo exhibition in Paris and another one in Los Angeles.

Her current project is to create an archetypal portrait of the early twenty-first century. Her works of large size have a strong presence and exude dynamism and remarkable vitality. And this is all the more remarkable because it is a work on paper, a work of withdrawal and not of layering. Indeed, the piece of paper is completely painted in pink and black with acrylic, which is then removed and washed with a mixture of bleach and water which allows shades from pink to white, from black to grey. The gesture is sharp and quick, which causes many losses and failures. As for watercolor there is no repentance. The other randomness is the reaction of the paper with water which may also result in the destruction of a work in progress.

This new artist has an original and personal technique that makes her a discovery not to be missed!

We welcome you with pleasure by appointment at a time of your choice to provide you any information / additional equipment you might need.
